1. The first part of the report is a general introduction to the subject of the study. It discusses the importance of the study and the objectives of the research.

2. The second part of the report is a detailed description of the methodology used in the study. It includes information about the sample size, the data collection methods, and the statistical analysis techniques.

3. The third part of the report is a discussion of the results of the study. It compares the findings with the previous research and discusses the implications of the study.

4. The fourth part of the report is a conclusion and a list of references. The conclusion summarizes the main findings of the study and provides recommendations for future research. The references list the sources of information used in the study.

5. The fifth part of the report is a list of appendices. These include the raw data, the statistical analysis results, and other supplementary information.

6. The sixth part of the report is a list of figures and tables. These provide a visual representation of the data and the results of the study. The figures include line graphs, bar charts, and pie charts. The tables provide a detailed summary of the data.

7. The seventh part of the report is a list of footnotes. These provide additional information about the study and the sources of information used in the study. The footnotes also provide a detailed explanation of the statistical analysis techniques used in the study.
